Before you dive: STINAPA nature fee and diver orientation

Every diver and snorkeler pays a STINAPA nature fee of 40 USD per person per calendar year (valid January 1 to December 31), which covers the Bonaire National Marine Park and Washington Slagbaai National Park; children under 13 are exempt. Independent divers must complete a mandatory orientation, a short briefing plus one supervised check-out dive, before diving on their own. Dive gloves, touching coral or animals, taking anything from the water and anchoring are prohibited, and reef-safe sunscreen is required.

Water: 27–29 °C

Visibility: Usually 18 m or better, often over 30 m at many sites

Best months: Year-round. Bonaire lies outside the main hurricane belt; coral spawning chances are best April to October.
